

In 3020, the first sightings of "bison men" were reported. These hybrid beings soon appeared frequently across a new America, and they began to develop cultures among themselves.

Under the possession of their almighty space lord, the cult raided the remaining human sanctuary in January of 3019, with 30 members arrested and 2 were and still are missing. It is suspected that these people had also taken the bison as well.

With the acceleration of climate change, a string of world wars broke out between nations, leading to the rise of a fringe cult across social media and eventually the mass destruction of the human race. In the year 3000, tensions grew between the remaining humans, who survived underground, and the cult.

In 2010, scientists decoded a secret manuscript found in the year 1876, that detailed how to genetically modify living beings. In 2012 they began testing the technology on a group of bison, one of the bison, notably, possessed the ability of completex thought, and the ability to produce intentionally modified offspring.
